

Embedded Generic Performance Test

We give the board per-determined commands for the purpose of testing the performance delta when requesting multiple applications with all of them running on separate threads.

We then can compile a log to see if there is any noticeable difference between the GPIO ports.

Things to note:

Need a global signal output for:

- Lights are active.
- Motor is active.

Potential for multiple light arrays / GPIO light outputs.

